Run 2132 – Nauru in the Badlands @ Koongamia

Preamble:

Here we are in lovely downtown Koongamia where the noise from the airport flight path drowns out the sounds of domestic violence up the street. The bucket is here, but no sign of the hare.

Alias arrives via the bush and then the hare returns from setting the run. A few nosy locals were moved on and then Nauru proceeded to give us an inspiring insight into the run – “It’s longer than I thought, I marked it 3 times, hope you can find the drink stop.”

The Run

The pack of 6 were very upbeat and proceeded to the first arrow at the bus stop. The trail was well marked and wandered around the streets with enough false trails and checks to keep the pack together. We passed three houses without barking dogs and Elvis managed to bark at nearly all the others. The hare was spotted in his car trying to find us and eventually turned up in a panic asking, “Have you found the drink stop?”. A hastily convened drink stop was delayed as Nauru mixed the brew. Turns out he had a shit day – his car was RS, his back was RS, the run was RS and his glasses did not work in the hire car. We then followed trail home and did not come across the alleged original drink stop.

Back in under an hour and while we waited for the hare to procure mash Elvis managed to have a conversation with some local 7-year old’s, they seemed to understand each other.

The Run Down:

The acting GM (Alias) called for scores and Boydwonder gave it a 7, Fitzall an 8 and Elvis a 6.75. The GM decided it was worth a 7.5
